

The Mabel B. Annis Memorial Student Art Competition

For the past thirteen years, the Brown County Art Gallery has been host to the Mabel B. Annis Memorial Student Art Competition which is open to all schools in seven surrounding counties. The Annis Memorial Trust has provided over $1,600.00 in prize money each year, while the Gallery Foundation has provided gallery space and administrative services. From modest beginnings the competition has grown to over 14 schools taking part. The goal is to provide these gifted students with a chance to compete and exhibit their work, win prize money, and even sell their work in a professional gallery setting.

Indiana Heritage Arts, Inc. a non-profit support group for Indiana artists whose home is here at the Brown County Art Gallery has joined as a partner. With both funds and judging expertise, IHA has become a valuable partner in this important joint effort to support young Hoosier artists.

Indiana Heritage Arts stages one of the largest art competitions for heritage style Indiana artists each June at the Gallery. Over 200 of Indiana's top professional and amateur artists routinely enter, competing for over $20,000 in prize money and thousands more in purchase awards.

In these days of cost cutting, many school systems have had to reduce art programming. Many schools often share one art teacher. Competitions like this one provide important encouragement to students and teachers. Organizers also hope to eventually increase prize money, possibly offer scholarships and support for art students and teachers.

Anyone who would like to contribute to this effort should contact the Brown County Art Gallery Foundation at 812-988-4609.
